Lake Resort Homes Burn

3 Fires Rage Out Of Control Through Santa Monica Mountain Retreats

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — A new fire broke out in the Santa Monica Mountains Friday, burning homes around a lake resort and moving steadily toward a huge blaze still on a rampage in its third day.

Three separate fires are raging through the tinder-dry brush of the mountains, which are dotted with cabins, vacation retreats and lavish homes.

The possibility of arson is being investigated.

The new fire, across the mountains from Malibu, started a mile from Lake Sherwood, a movie location site where film celebrities and others have homes.

The flames raced through light brush to the shores of the lake, burning homes, boat houses and boats. Ventura County fire Chief Pete Little said six houses, in the $10,000-$25,000 class, were destroyed.

Fire Split

After sweeping past the lake the fire split, one fork heading up the mountains toward a union with the main Malibu blaze now burning along the crest three miles away, and the other heading toward a canyon two miles away where actors Alan Ladd and George Brent and actress Eve Arden have homes.

Los Angeles County fire Chief Keith Klingler said the new development poses a serious threat to vast areas of Los Angeles and Ventura Counties.

Little's count of six houses and 5,000 acres burned in the Lake Sherwood area augments Klingler's earlier estimate of some 60 homes and 30,000 acres burned in the main Malibu blaze, which has caused one death.

Pincers

A second fire broke out Thursday night four miles east of the main blaze, forming a pair of fiery pincers, between which lie a small commercial district and several score homes, including the famed Malibu film colony. The latter is on a sandspit stretching into the ocean and well removed from brushy areas.

The community of Malibu has an estimated population of 1,000. Its homes and shops are well protected by firebreaks and fields and are not considered in great danger. On the outskirts, however, are homes close to brushy areas.

Firemen said both Thursday night's outbreak and the Lake Sherwood fire appeared to be the work of an arsonist, and they began hunting clues.

The first day the fire drove across the Pacific Coast highway, reaching down to burn homes along the beach. One of those destroyed was that of television personality Ralph Edwards.

In the film colony here such people as bandleader Horace Heidt, Louis Howard, June Haver and Jane Russell and husband Bob Waterfield have full time or part time homes.

Ranchos

Elsewhere along the beach front and in canyons are the homes and ranches of personalities including Bill Boyd, Duncan Renaldo, Kim Novak, Jimmy Dunn, Wild Bill Elliott, Jane Wyman, Shirley MacLain, Hugh O'Brien, and writers William Saroyan, Valentine Davies, Isobel Lennart and Jack Stanley. Also in the area are musicians Gordon Jenkins and Nelson Riddle and disc jockey Peter Potter.

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight has declared a state of disaster to bring in the full aid of state agencies.

CPPD Construction Budget $5 Million

Lincoln Star Special

COLUMBUS, Neb. — A $5,004,293 construction budget for 1957 was approved here Friday by the Consumers Public Power District's Board of Directors. The Board reported that approximately $4 million of the budget actually will be spent on the 1957 construction program.

The budget includes a $124,000 appropriation for preliminary engineering work at CPPD's proposed 100,000-kilowatt steam power plant near Hallam, Neb. The plant, to be known as "Sheldon Station," is scheduled to be operating in 1960. It is planned that the plant will become an atomic power plant when CPPD completes current negotiations with the Atomic Energy Commission.

Distribution

One of the largest items in the budget is the work on local distribution systems. Nearly $2½ million was approved for work on CPPD's 11 districts. Over $2 million is estimated to be used in the eastern two-thirds of the state.

The directors and officials again pointed out that local distribution systems must be offered to the individual cities debt-free in 1972, according to state law.

The officials stated that distribution projects must be financed only through net revenue, rather than through borrowing. Another large item in the budget is the payment of principal and interest on outstanding bonds. The board set aside for debt service a $2,644,550 fund for 1957 to make payments on eastern and western system bonds.

The directors estimated that the over-all 1957 net revenue would be $3,317,816 after such operating and maintenance expenses as the production, transmission and distribution of electric power, payments in lieu of taxes, administration.

They revealed an expected decrease of $397,788 in net revenue (down 12.13 per cent from 1956) in the eastern system. The estimated net revenue for the western system was tagged for a 1.09 per cent increase—for an over-all total of $435,450.

This figure does not include additional money if power is sold to the United States Bureau of Reclamation—as has been done in the past years, the CPPD said. Operational revenue is expected to increase $554,127 or 4.4 per cent in the eastern system to an estimated $15,291,588. The western system's operating revenue is expected to dip $40,665 (off 1.84 per cent from 1956) to $2,169,550.

The over-all operating expenses are estimated at $13,457,920. The biggest gain in this figure is the purchase of power in the eastern system, CPPD said. The Board estimated that power purchases from the Nebraska Public Power System will be up $696,976 or a 11.89 per cent hike over 1956.

The budget estimates NPPS power to cost 8.3 mills per KWH. The cost was 7.99 mills in the first nine months of 1956. CPPD officials told the Board that no customer rate increase is contemplated.

The budget estimated total KWH sales in 1957 to be just over 808 million. That figure is a dip from the 834,053,000 KWH sold in 1956 (nine months actual and three months estimated). CPPD revealed that the average number of customers in 1956 was 117,762. It said each residential customer will use (through 1956) an estimated average of 2.796 KWH at an average cost of 2.6 cents.

Although local distribution projects will take a big chunk of the 1957 budget, CPPD officials called attention to planned work on transmission lines, with major transmission improvements planned on the following lines: York-Fairmont; Elm Creek-Odessa; Plymouth-DeWitt, in the Stanton, Central City and Grand Island areas; Monroe-Woodville; Spencer Junction-Bristow; Dannebrog-Farwell; Abie-Linwood; Osceola-Sheley; the Aard area; Gordon-Merriman, and perhaps revamping of the Gordon-Crawford line.

CPPD's rural customers, including irrigators and potential irrigators, are provided for in the budget, CPPD said. Over $263,000 was approved by the Board for rural projects. These planned improvements include such increasingly heavily irrigated sections as Ogallala, Kearney and York as well as the rural territory around Beatrice and Norfolk.

Car Accessories Taken

The management of Mel's Conoco Service Station at 3177 South reported to police the theft of two horns from a jeep, and a radio from a car parked at the station. Police were told a car battery cell was filled with red sand. Loss was valued by police at $60.

Radio Stolen

Police reported Friday the theft of a leather covered radio from a display counter at Lawlor's Sporting Goods and Hardware store at 1118 O. Police valued the loss at $59.95.

Head-On Crash Kills Man, 56, From Pender

A head-on collision of two trucks on the crest of a hill southeast of Pender, Neb., Friday killed 56-year-old Waldo Carlsten of Pender.

A lumber truck driven by Carlsten overturned after the crash with a creamery truck driven by Leland Sunderman, 21, of Lyons, Neb.

Sunderman was unhurt. Carlsten, an employee of the K-B Lumber Co. of Pender, is survived by his widow, a son and a daughter.

No. 311

His death was the 311th traffic fatality of the year in Nebraska. The state had six deaths during the Christmas holiday week end. Holiday deaths included two-year-old Danny Boardman of Eureka, Kan., who died in Lincoln after being injured in a Thursday accident 10 miles north of Lincoln. The Boardman boy's death will not be counted in the Lincoln traffic death toll because the accident occurred outside city limits.

—Many Fake Bombs Planted In N.Y.—

POLICE HARASSED

Cops Know 'Mad Bomber' Well

Editor's Note—New York City's "Mad Bomber" is still at large. Police, however, know a great deal about the man who, over a period of 16 years, has left at least 33 home-made bombs in theaters, railroad stations, the main public library and other public places. The following—based on facts gathered by police, psychiatrists and other experts over years of investigation—is an imaginative account of how authorities feel the "Mad Bomber" might think and behave on a typical bomb mission.

By JACK LOTTO

International News Service

"Why don't those fools look at me? Don't they know I have the power to destroy them with one of my bombs?"

The neatly dressed, middle-aged man in the worn suit sat quietly in the crowded subway train. He fingered the explosive pipe in his pocket, felt a glow of superiority over the men and women around him.

He yearned to shout out that he was the man everybody was talking about, but suppressed his compulsion.

"I wish I could show the fools the wonderful job I did on the mechanism last night," he mused. "But they wouldn't understand." He argued silently with himself.

'Persecuting'

"They're like the rest. They'd only call the ghouls who have been persecuting me."

The thin-faced man glanced at the newspaper in his lap and for a moment anger showed on his face.

"If those police ghouls and stupid newspapers call me a psychopath again, I'll deal with them. I'll leave bigger bombs, that's what I'll do."

He felt apprehension as a man on the other side of the train looked his way.

"Does he suspect? I wonder if he knows? I must be careful."

The doubt cleared quickly and was replaced with a smug feeling.

"How could he know—or anybody for that matter. They'll never get me. I've covered my tracks. I'm too smart for them. They'll pay. They'll pay in full."

'Grand Central'

The arrow and the words "Grand Central Terminal" appeared ahead. Holding the bomb tightly now, he walked up two flights. He felt a tinge of nervous excitement as he prepared again to show the world what an important man he really was.

He stopped in one of the many underground lavatories to compose himself and prepare for the last step that would bring police to admire his work.

Behind a closed door, he set the timing device, looked over the bomb to make sure it was perfect, quickly turned the nut to hold his mechanism firm.

"I'll show those rotten . . ." he thought as he pulled his hat low over his face and walked out of the rest room.

Glancing around to make sure he was not being observed, the man placed a dime in the slot of a nearby locker, gently placed the bomb inside and shut the door.

Tormentors

Now he wanted to shout to the world what he had just done.

Caution went out again but he still could tease and anger his tormentors.

The man, slight, of medium height, walked to a telephone booth and dialed police headquarters.

"Listen ghouls," he shouted in a gruff voice, "I've just planted one of my mechanisms in Grand Central. I'm going to make more and bigger bombs."

With an inner smile, the man descended into the subway, en route to his furnished room, where he lived alone.

Now he felt at peace with the world—temporarily. Soon the papers would headline his great mechanical genius. Then he could prepare to strike again.

Rock Island Denied Train Service Cut

By ROY CAMPBELL

Star Staff Writer

The Rock Island Railroad has been denied its request to discontinue trains No. 25 and 26 as they operate in Nebraska.

It was learned Friday night that the State Railway Commission, which conducted a public hearing on the request, made its decision Friday afternoon. A written order on the decision isn't expected to be made until Saturday morning or later.

The Commission voted unanimously in its order to turn down the Rock Island request on the trains that run from Omaha to Fairbury and service 20 towns in-between.

Operated At Loss

Serving the 129-mile run, according to the railroad and its counsel Guy Chambers of Lincoln, has cost the line more money than has been taken in. Witnesses for the Rock Island testified the operating net loss has been increasing since 1951.

In that year, the net loss was $21,277, according to Harold A. Miller, Rock Island statistician from Chicago. He said the line is losing $29,871 this year alone, according to figures from the first of the year through Aug. 31.

Rock Island officials also testified they wanted to supplant the railroad service with truck service, by the Rock Island Motor Transit Co., a subsidiary of the railroad.

Opposition to the discontinuance of the trains was voiced by several persons living along the route. Through their counsel, former governor Robert Crosby of Lincoln, the protesters, including State Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth, claimed the railroad as their only means of transportation. Others

NEBRASKANS TO GET CHANCE AT WEATHERMAN

ALLIANCE, Neb. (AP) — A Kansas meteorologist in charge of weather forecasts will talk with members of the Western Nebraska United Chambers of Commerce which has criticized the weather forecasts for the Panhandle.

Henry Jacobson, who is in charge of forecasting for the northern Great Plains area, will speak Jan. 10.

A WNUCC resolution criticizing the predictions, especially before the Nov. 1 blizzard, brought a request from D. M. Little, deputy chief of the Weather Bureau in Washington, asking that the Bureau discuss the matter with WNUCC members.

One A Minute

Some calls arrived at the rate of one a minute from widely scattered areas throughout the city. One theater in Yorktown area was evacuated—needlessly, as it turned out.

Finally, Chief of Detectives James Leggett was forced to call a halt. He directed the squad not to answer any more calls unless a bomb or suspected bomb actually was located. Other police forces were assigned to handle the alarms.

City Jittery

The wild rash of false reports hit a city already jittery because of the mad bomber's latest bold midnight strike, his second of the week.

The maniac calmly defied a $26,000 price on his head, invaded the Paramount Theater in Times Square the previous night and planted one of his infernal devices in the cushion of a 17th row seat.

Some 2,500 persons were watching Alfred Hitchcock's "The Wrong Man" as the bomber completed his stealthy task. Police did not discover the unexploded bomb until 2:30 Friday morning, after the theater had closed for the night.

Man Telephones

A tipoff on the bomb had come hours earlier, when a man with a thick accent telephoned Mrs. Grace Mlyott, a Paramount telephone operator, to tell her a bomb was due to go off in a few minutes.

"Why do you do these things?" she asked him.

"Oh, never mind," the man told her and hung up.

Cherry Pie Champion

The champion cherry pie in Lancaster County was chosen Friday afternoon in the annual contest, with top honors as the baker going to Jeane Markussen (left) of 7415 Adams, a junior at Northeast High School, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Markussen.

As the winner, Miss Markussen will represent the County in the state cherry pie contest which will be held next week. She received a purple ribbon and a $5 cash prize.

Also winning a purple ribbon was Erwin Hutchinson, of 5727 Baldwin. Other awards were to:

Merna Prettyman, 1859 Euclid, a blue ribbon; Harriet DeBus, 517 B, red ribbon; Pat Munn, of Martell and Phyllis Burnett, of Roca, both winners of white ribbons.

Ike Pleads For Safe Weekend

But Safety Council Fears 490 Will Die On Highways During Period

By The Associated Press

First reports of New Year's weekend traffic deaths started coming in Friday Night a few hours after President Eisenhower, shocked by the slaughter on highways over the Christmas holidays, pleaded for caution.

Early Saturday 12 deaths had been reported from automobile accidents. In addition, one person was killed in a fire, making an overall weekend accident toll of 13. No deaths were reported from miscellaneous causes connected with the New Year's observance. One highway smashup accounted for five of the fatalities. That tragedy occurred in Baldwin Borough, near Pittsburgh, where two automobiles occupied by young people crashed on streets made slippery with an inch of new snow. The initial report of an automobile-caused fatality came from Michigan a few hours after the President had urged motorists to "make this the safest New Year's weekend on record."

Rural Road

The victim was Miss Louise Woodbury, 75, of Ottawa Lake, Mich. She was struck by a car as she was walking on a rural road near her home in Monroe County, about 40 miles southwest of Detroit.

President Eisenhower called upon all Americans to join in a determination to save lives and to avoid a repetition of the "tragic toll" of the Christmas weekend.

The four-day observance of Christmas was marred by 706 deaths in traffic, 54 in fires and 124 in other kinds of accidents for a total of 884. Both the traffic and over-all toll set new records for any holiday in history.

The National Safety Council has predicted 490 motor vehicle fatalities in the four-day-102-hour New Year holiday period that began at 6 p.m. Friday and will end at midnight Tuesday.

The NSC forecast figure would establish a record for a New Year period. The current mark is 407, recorded during a four-day period at the end of 1952 and the start of 1953.

The White House statement set forth:

"For hundreds of American families the Christmas weekend this year was a time of sorrow that cannot be measured in statistics or casualty lists. The families broken up, the homes darkened, the anguish and heartbreak of children and the aged—these terrible penalties of speeding or careless and reckless driving cast a terrible shadow on this Christmas."

"The New Year's weekend, too, will inflict on hundreds more an equally tragic toll unless all of us as we drive about the country observe the rules of the road, a decent regard for the safety of ourselves and others, and a courtesy that reflects our respect for the life and welfare of our neighbors. We can make this the safest New Year's weekend on record, if we want to.

"And certainly after listening to and reading, through the Christmas days, the reports of mounting death and injury on our highways, all of us should be determined to save lives this weekend."

Tyler Ryan Named Lincoln Chamber Contact Club Head

Tyler Ryan of the Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co., will head the Contact Club of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce in 1957.

Ryan was elected at the club dinner Friday night to succeed Walter Hibbs of Roberts Dairy Co., as head of the Chamber's membership recruiting group, Ray Osborn, Chamber vice president, announced.

Club team leaders will be Leo Beck Sr., of First National Bank, Roger Hoffman of KLIN, and Lloyd Riehe of New York Life Insurance Co.

Top "quota buster" awards went to Beck and Fred Cox of Gold & Co. Other awards went to Charles Fowler, Roy Bittler, Sam Cheslin, Hoffman, Riehe, Ryan, Howard Duff, Hibbs, Harold Muffly, Ralph Queen, Howard Spahnle, Clark Brayman, Harold Sorensen, David Stavland and Ellis Verink.

Among invited guests were Burnham Yates, new Chamber president; Harold Hoppe, new treasurer; Albert A. Held, 1956 president; Willard E. Townsend, 1956 finance chairman, and Merle M. Hale, 1955 president.

Polio Vaccination Program To Speed Up In January

An "accelerated" program of giving free polio shots to youths 19 and under and pregnant women will begin Jan. 7 at the City-County Health Department, 935 R, according to Dr. James T. Googe, department director.

Dr. Googe said Friday that free shots are now being given to applicants, but said the program recently approved by the Lancaster County Medical Association will not get in full swing until Jan. 7. He said parental consent forms will be distributed among Lincoln school children next week.

If parents approve, Dr. Googe said, the public schools will furnish bus transportation to and from the ice for The Star to southeast points in the state.

The circulation manager said the use of trucks was too expensive.

No Appeal Indicated

There was no indication Friday night that the Rock Island plans to appeal the decision of the Commission to the State Supreme Court.

The railroad testified during the hearing it had gotten approval of postal authorities for handling mail by the truck service. Protestants had stated during the hearings they would be denied adequate mail service if the trains were dropped from service.

Crosby, when informed of the decision, said he was "very pleased with the outcome."

$37,746 Loss
Railroad officials testified the total revenue for the two trains operating just in Nebraska was $111,499 with total expenses of $149,246. The net loss was $37,746 for the operating year of 1955.

Protestants have claimed a change in railroad schedules could improve the use of the two lines. Stations served by the two trains include: Omaha, Albright, Rumsey, Richfield, Louisville, South Bend, Murdock, Alvo, Prairie Home, Havelock, Lincoln, Rokeby, Martel, Hallam, Clatonia, DeWitt, Plymouth, Jansen, Fairbury and Thompson.

Bus Crash Passenger Gives Birth To Baby

A Greenwood, Neb., woman is recovering from a busy 24 hours in which she escaped from a burning bus and gave birth to a healthy baby girl.

Mrs. William Greene, a passenger on the Omaha-bound bus which collided with a truck Thursday on No. 48th, admits that her escape from the bus via a window was "just unbelievable."

Seated facing the back of the bus, Mrs. Greene was saved from injury because she was braced by the coach seat. She managed to pry open a sliding window and, minus shoes and hat, exit feet first to the glass-strewn pavement more than six feet below.

"I can't understand how I got through the window," Mrs. Greene relates. "It wouldn't stay open, and I had to hold it. There was no one to help me."

Thankful

"Thank God I didn't have my other four children with me," she said. Molly, 8, Susie, 6, Sarah, 4, and Christopher, 2, were at home in Greenwood during their mother's trip to Lincoln.

Mrs. Greene explained that the front exit of the bus was apparently enveloped in flames.

After escaping, Mrs. Greene followed doctor's orders and went to Lincoln General Hospital where she gave birth to five pound, two ounce Julie Friday morning.

The happy results of Mrs. Greene's 24-hour experiences are: baby, "doing fine;" mother, "without a scratch" and very happy; the Greene family, a brand new baby and another deduction for their 1956 income tax report.

Complaint Against Lincolnite Dropped For Evidence Lack

Lincoln Star Special

FALLS CITY, Neb.—A complaint against Earl Burnett Jr. of Lincoln on a charge of alleged embezzlement was dismissed on grounds of insufficient evidence Friday by Justice of the Peace Homer D. Kirk.

The complaint, signed by H. B. Zelen, charged that Burnett embezzled $440 from the Allied Mid-West Distributing Co. of Lincoln between Oct. 7, 1954, and Dec. 1, 1954, while he was employed as an agent for that firm.

CITY SEWER USE FEE MAY FOLLOW LEGISLATION OK

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

With approval by bond attorneys of legislation permitting the transfer of the Sanitary District 1 sewerage disposal plant to Lincoln, enactment of a sewer use fee could be the city's next step.

City Attorney Jack Pace said the legislation has now been approved by Chapman & Cutler, Chicago bond attorneys. Both the city and Sanitary District had previously approved the legislation.

The law must now be introduced as a bill in the State Legislature. A meeting will be called, Pace said, at which time the proposal will be explained to Lincoln's three state senators.

It is hoped, he said, that they will introduce the bill. There is no reason to expect any trouble in passing the bill, Pace said.

No Legal Bar

At this point, Pace said, there is at least no legal reason against establishment as soon as possible of a sewer use fee.

The revenue produced by this fee would pay off the bonds to be issued by the city to finance an estimated $4 million sewer improvement program.

Transfer of the plant to the city was recommended by Chapman & Cutler so that the entire sewer system would be under one jurisdiction.

Pace pointed out that the planned revenue bonds might sell better if a fee system were in existence at the time of the sale. Prospective buyers would then have evidence of what the program would produce and the sewer system would already have some financial stability, he said.

City Might Need Funds

Also, he said, the city might need some funds before the bonds are sold for engineering and legal services in connection with the sale of bonds and the preparation of plans for the improvements. A use fee, he pointed out, could produce this revenue.

The fee is expected to be based on water consumption. Early, unofficial estimates of the amount of the fee to residential customers was about 50 per cent of the average water bill.

The use fee has been proposed for two reasons:

1. To spread the load of municipal services over something other than real estate.
2. To provide a more equitable means of paying for sewer services. Without a fee, the many tax-exempt institutions and organizations would pay nothing for the sewer system while receiving all the benefits.

Contracts May Be Awarded In May For Interstate

Contract may be awarded in May on the first section of the interstate highway in Nebraska, State Engineer L. N. Ress estimated.

Construction would be undertaken on a 12-mile section of the cross-country highway from the traffic interchange south of Gretna to an interchange near L street northeast of Millard.

Ike Eying Power To Commit Troops

He May Ask Congress Leaders' Opinions On Mideast Plan

By JOSEPH H. SINGER

WASHINGTON (INS)—Administration officials said Friday President Eisenhower is seriously considering asking Congress for standby power to send troops into the Middle East, if necessary, to preserve peace.

The President, these sources said, will discuss this request with congressional leaders during a bipartisan meeting in the White House on New Year's Day.

Mr. Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles are expected to sound them out on the possibility of congressional approval.

It was explained that the reaction of the House and Senate chiefs will greatly influence the President's decision.

If the congressional leaders indicate Congress might not approve his appeal, Mr. Eisenhower is expected to drop the idea for the time being.

Conditions

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, Mass., who conferred with the President Friday, said they did not discuss the proposal and refused to predict its fate. Martin said: "I just can't say what Congress would do. I think it would depend on the conditions at the time the proposal comes before us."

Senate Democrats voiced strong opposition to the projected proposal.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), declared that use of U.S. forces in the Middle East "would be lighting the fuse to the explosion that would start World War III."

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), said he was "opposed to the idea of unilateral action." He urged U.S. backing of a permanent United Nations police force and suggested that "our contribution should be a division of U.S. Marines and its air wing."

'Far Safer'

A similar view was expressed by Sen. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.), who commented: "It would be far safer and more effective if the United States would insist on leaving the U.N. police force on the job."

A Republican, Sen. Francis Case, S.D., said he "certainly wouldn't rush to endorse" a presidential request for authority to commit American forces "without knowing all about it."

Administration officials stressed that such a bid mainly would have great psychological effect as a warning against any nations, particularly Russia, who might attempt to cause more trouble in the Middle East.

In January, 1955, Congress gave the President authority to use American armed forces as he saw fit in case Red China attacked Formosa.

New Policy

The bold proposal now under consideration was explained as part of the overall new American policy for the Middle East.

This policy is designed mainly to prevent Moscow from moving into the Middle East vacuum created by the disappearance of British-French influence there.

Mr. Eisenhower already has warned Russia not to meddle in the Middle East. But, so far, all American statements have emphasized that the U.S. would take action through the United Nations.

Reversal Is Requested In Taxpayer Suit

A brief filed in Supreme Court by William Niklaus listed 30 assignments in error in asking reversal of a District Court ruling against him.

The District Court ruling turned down Niklaus in his taxpayer's suit against the Abel Construction Co. and Universal Surety Co. He had asked return of $589,314.35 in paving contract funds paid out to the Abel company in paving district contracts approved by the City Council, according to the brief.

Originally, Niklaus had asked for the return of $740,948.50, but he lists the $589,314.35 figure in his appeal brief before the Supreme Court.

District Judge Harry Spencer ruled last May that the paving district contracts were solely between the construction company and the city and that Mayor Clark Jeary had at no time any interest, direct or indirect, in the contracts.

Niklaus through his attorney Herbert Baird, had contended that Jeary had a direct interest in the contracts because of his being an attorney for the construction company.

Judge Spencer in his ruling said the funds involved in the paving contracts are a special assessment and not the general funds of the city.

The brief contended the court erred in this ruling. The brief contended the District Court also erred in failing to find Jeary, while a councilman and "at the same time" a director of the Universal Surety Company "was interested in the contract insured" because of the "premium collected by the surety company."

The suit by Niklaus, resulting in the brief, was one of several by the plaintiff asking refund of money to the city in paving district contracts.

POST OFFICE TO HONOR RETIRING RALPH WHYMAN

Lincoln Post Office employees will honor Assistant Postmaster Ralph W. Whyman, 70, on his retirement after more than 49 years of service in the Lincoln office.

Postmaster O. E. Jerner will present him with an honorary recognition certificate from Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield at 3 p.m. Monday, Dec. 31.

Whyman, beginning his postal career May 20, 1907, was promoted to foreman in 1930, became assistant superintendent of mails in 1942, superintendent of mails in 1951, and assistant postmaster in 1952.

No announcement of a successor has been made.

John Reider, 72, Contractor, Dies

Funeral services for John H. Reider, 72, of 1429 D, will be 2:30 p.m. Monday at Hodgman-Splain, with Dr. Herman Goede officiating. Burial will be in Wyuka.

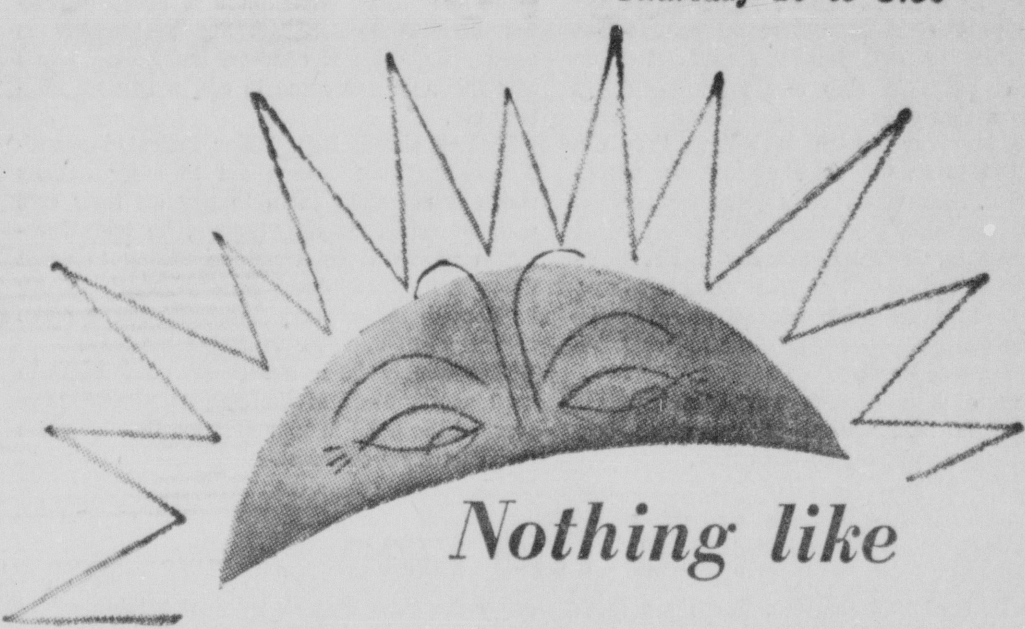

Reider, a retired builder, contractor and cabinet maker, died Thursday.

He had lived in Lincoln 53 years. He was a charter member of Friedens Lutheran Church.

Surviving are his wife, Alice; daughters, Mrs. Ruben Leback of Ft. Wayne, Ind., Mrs. W. E. Thurman of Elmendorf, Alaska; son, Alfred H. of Omaha; four grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Big 7 Students Find Quality Of Some Instruction Wanting

... NU Delegates Bring Up 'Drinking Problem'

KANSAS CITY (UP)—Big Seven conference student leaders Friday took a look at the quality of college instruction and found some of it wanting.

Their views came out at the annual Big Seven Student Government Assn. conference.

Pat Wilkerson of Kansas State, the conference chairman, said in some cases "extremely poor" instructors cannot be discharged because of the tenure system in Kansas.

Miller's Views On Aid

In Washington Nebraska's veteran House member, Rep. A. L. Miller, is quoted in the news dispatches as expressing the opinion that foreign aid in 1957 should consist of more food and technical help and presumably less military assistance.

There is every reason to believe that Mr. Miller has taken the pulse of his own people accurately. His views on foreign aid reflect theirs. Nebraska, not infrequently described as isolationist in viewpoint, actually is not isolationist in its outlook. This state recognizes that the United States must take a place in the world and more particularly make full contribution to world leadership.

But there is a growing weariness with the sameness of international policy, which consists chiefly of picking up the check.

It seems to be Uncle Sam's burden to finance the world. While there is every disposition here to do our part and particularly to answer the cries of distress, the feeling grows that the time has come to call a halt on military aid.

Looking ahead, Rep. Miller indicated opposition to granting foreign aid to other nations which would allow them to pay off their own national debts. As an example, he told Washington newsmen he would be willing to grant Great Britain additional time in which to pay its debt to this country but could not approve any effort to waive or to cancel the debt.

That simply is a matter of good common hard sense. Most of the nations abroad have reached the point in rehabilitation that they can stand on their own feet.

Hold The Line

Very little of 1956 remains. There are three driving days left.

Nebraska's traffic fatality score for the 363 days already lived out stood at 311. That was five fewer than during the corresponding period of 1955 when the total stood at 316.

When highway deaths are counted in terms of hundreds, a gain of five lives arithmetically is small. But in terms of human survival it is important. The preservation of even one life is a victory.

Whether Nebraska shall keep its winning margin or lose it will rest on the events of the coming three days. Dedicated caution can carry the state through its final holiday period with no further accidents, no more killing, no more injuries and no more property damage.

Certainly there could be no better objective nor any sweeter triumph than to achieve a perfect traffic record over the pre-New Year week-end. And there could be no better way to usher in the new year of 1957 than a three day period of total highway safety.

Good resolutions do not have to begin with New Years and everyone will agree that a good resolution carried into a new year and continued on is the best of all.

The State Made Gains

The Nebraska Resources Division delivered its biennial report to Governor Victor Anderson—a report that amply earned praise for the division.

The most prominent tangible achievements were the acquisition of eight new industries for the state, a factor that created 1,400 new jobs, stimulated business and community life proportionately, added to economic diversification and contributed to the state's position nationally. That alone is sufficient to capture the approval of Nebraska.

The intangible benefits stemming from organized development of resources are less calculable, but unquestionably larger. The presence of state representatives in the nation's market for business and industry spreads the provocative story of Nebraska. The emphasis given at home on resources development stimulates Nebraska thinking and action along constructive lines.

Significant in the report were the comments by Division Head C. V. Price on the pending development of the canning industry. He revealed that a major cannery, having conducted pilot operations in Nebraska, is planning to increase operations to the extent of 1,000 acres in row crops in a program foreseeing a goal of 8,000 acres. It reminds of the advisability of agricultural diversification as well as general diversification. There is a better future for Nebraska when all of its acres are busy raising a variety of products than when part of them are held in partly subsidized non-production of a few crops.

Price's report also opened a provocative vista when it called for more intensive cultivation of the tourist dollar. A state that is already enjoying a $30 million tourist income can multiply that figure with diligent development of its vacation and recreation resources.

Low Polio Rate

The United States Public Health Service, reporting on 1956 as a polio year, gave out some expected but nevertheless welcome news. The incidence of polio dropped off 50 per cent. There were fewer than 15,000 cases among America's 160 million people. That means that in 1956 the incidence of the disease was approximately one in a thousand.

The USPHS also noted that the nation's immunization program is only about half finished, but that the effectiveness of new immunizing agents and of present-day knowledge has been definitely established. The incidence of polio is considered progressively on the downgrade.

A part of the story, of course, is the spectacular achievements of modern science and research. But of equal significance is the effectiveness of mass action—the teaming of people and specialists. Polio was attacked largely through mass support of work and research.

Editorial Of The Day

Asylum

(From The Milwaukee Journal)

There was a singular insensitivity in Representative Burleson's aspersions on the Hungarian refugees for quitting their country in a time of crisis. For most of them, the only choice was between voluntary exile and deportation to slave labor camps in Siberia. It is easy to sit in safety and urge martyrdom on others; but the Hungarian guerrilla fighters who have been carrying on the only kind of resistance to the Red Army that has any effectiveness understand the plight of the refugees and give them help in getting out of the country. They know that Hungary's future depends on saving the lives of these people.

Many, perhaps most, of the Hungarian exiles will want to return to Hungary when the situation changes and the Soviet puppets are ousted. Compassion suggests, therefore, that they be given haven and hospitality without any pressure on them to change their nationality. If Hungary is to become again a center of learning and culture, the talents and the leadership embodied in her exiles must be returned to her. They deserve the help which President Eisenhower has promised when the time comes for their return. The obligation of free men in the meantime is to grant the asylum which freedom has traditionally offered to the victims of oppression.

Herter-Nixon Deal Ousted Hoover

WASHINGTON — Inside fact about the exit of Herbert Hoover, Jr., from the Eisenhower administration is that he didn't want to retire. His father, the ex-president, even made a special appeal to the White House on behalf of his son, without success.

The man young Hoover blames for axing him with Eisenhower is William Jackson, the White House expert on security affairs. To some extent, Hoover is right. Jackson considered Hoover a bad influence on foreign affairs, did his best to get him out of the State Department.

The man Hoover should really blame, however, is Vice President Nixon, who made a deal with Gov. Chris Herter of Massachusetts last August that if he vetoed the Stassen drive to nominate him, then Herter, would be made undersecretary of state. That was why this column was able to report on Aug. 21 that "Herbert Hoover will retire next year and be replaced by Chris Herter of Massachusetts."

Hoover will not leave the government until February. He's staying on until after Herter retires as governor of Massachusetts in January, then takes a vacation. Hoover has already received an offer from Dictator Franco to be his petroleum adviser, has turned it down. Hoover says he'll accept no retainers from foreign governments.

Interior Department engineers have discovered a unique way of irrigating the parched Texas Panhandle. It may be a godsend for the future.

Today Texans in the Panhandle raise cotton, grain, and potatoes by irrigating with underground water pumped from wells. But water is being pumped out 100 times faster than rainfall replenishes it, so that the water table has been falling rapidly. As a result, farming is considered doomed within a matter of years.

However, Engineers Edward A. Moulder and Donald R. Frazor of the U.S. Geological Survey have now developed a plan to collect the rainwater that falls in the Panhandle region in ponds, then pump it underground for storage in old irrigation wells. Previously this rainwater has been lost by evaporation.

Refilling of underground water sources has been done before but never for irrigation. Areas on Long Island, for example, have seen their once rich water table sink so low that salt water from the ocean has threatened to seep in. As a result, over 60,000,000 gallons of underground water consumed daily in Brooklyn and Queens is by law pumped back into the earth after use. This is not drinking water, but water used for air cooling and industrial purposes.

Adlai Stevenson may become a political columnist. He is considering several offers to write a daily column. Labor Leader George Meany accepted an invitation to a dinner honoring Indian Prime Minister Nehru, but threatened to tell Nehru to his face that the latter was a friend of the Communists. When word of Meany's private threat reached the White House, anxious aides almost dropped the AFL-CIO boss from the guest list. At the last minute, they received assurances Meany wouldn't carry out his threat. The AFL-CIO high command is violently split over the question of Nehru. But Walter Reuther, No. 2 man in the labor organization, is sold on Nehru. Incidentally, Reuther is urging labor chiefs to keep up their political activity all the year round. Senate Leaders Eye Presidency

WASHINGTON—Among the several claims to fame being racked up by the 85th Congress is the fact that both Senate majority and Senate minority will be led by men ambitious to become President. The special circumstances pose unusual problems for the President, who must work with both.

First of all, President Eisenhower cannot himself run or threaten to run again. The constitutional bar to a third term, enacted by a Congress of his own party, makes him the first President of whom this can be said. Thus Mr. Eisenhower lacks a whip, available in greater or less degree to all his predecessors.

The decision of the voters to give him a Congress of the opposite party makes all the congressional leaders important to him. He will need to work with the majority spokesmen in order to enact his program. He will be obliged to give as much weight as possible to the minority leaders in order to support and help his own party.

Fortunately for President Eisenhower, the heads of the House—Speaker Rayburn and Republican Leader Martin—have outlived presidential ambition. Very often this is true of the Senate as well; for example, Franklin D. Roosevelt at no point in his long tenure was troubled by presidential ambitions on the part of a Senate leader of either party.

Actually senators generally prefer to be led by a colleague whose ambitions are not likely to get in the way of what other senators may want for themselves.

They also are apt to turn to men from smaller or border states who are less susceptible to pressure from the powerful local interests in big states. Such leaders are better able to pay the price of a national outlook benefiting both their party and the country.

Detached from personal hopes and local influence, the leaders also find it easier to achieve unity and harmony among the strange bedfellows of a national political party.

These customary standards were swept away in the Senate by the decisive actions of two men—the late Robert A. Taft, and Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

Taft decided to name his successor and was able to do so by special reason of his personal prestige and illness. Senator William F. Knowland of California, therefore, literally inherited the Republican leadership. He has performed to the party's satisfaction and will be renamed next week without opposition.

The other innovator is Senator Johnson of Texas, who decided he wanted to be Democratic leader and aggressively and astutely set about achieving it. He has since built his position to the point where he will be re-elected next week without a murmur of protest, although some Democratic senators fear him and some dislike him. An even greater number disagree with the direction in which he is taking their party. (Copyright, 1956, by U.F. Syndicate, Inc.)

Great Teacher Passes

One of the lights in my life went out the other day when a magnificently cantankerous gentleman named Oscar Coffin died in Raleigh, N.C., possibly from boredom. He retired last June as the head of the journalism school at the University of North Carolina, the thought-factory which unleashed me on an unsuspecting world.

It is impossible to estimate how many newspapermen O. J. Coffin created in his own image. He left an editorship of a Carolina daily newspaper to head up the journalism school at the university and turned out working pressmen at a furious rate for 30 years. He may have created a few monsters, such as me, but his fledglings got jobs and held them, progressed in them, and achieved recognition in them.

One thing is certain: Coffin turned out a small percentage of amateurs, and practically none of his boys and girls wound up in the advertising business. Very few became book-authors, a shameful profession, the skipper always said.

O. J. was a humorously irascible gentleman whose hooked nose and craggy chin gave him the appearance of a truculent turtle. He had a pair of piercing blue eyes behind frosty glasses and a laugh that could be reminiscent of the croaking of ravens. Some of this was asthma, but a lot of it arrived from the sardonic view that there was very little room in his racket for ineptness.

He had an idea that a man writing a piece ought to know what he was writing about, so that it at least might be intelligible to the author before he palmed it off on the public.

The skipper had been a school teacher, a reporter, a columnist, several kinds of newspaper executive, an editorial writer and finally an editor-in-chief before he started pounding knowledge into the knotty heads of young squirts who wanted to write the great American novel that very minute. While discouraging this, Coffin taught them the rudiments of a coherent, short sentence.

He taught them the value of the word "ain't," for emphasis, and suggested that the world was far from perfect and that the people in the world shared its imperfections.

To that end, he dispatched his hopefuls to such unlyrical places as police courts, insane asylums, and state prisons. He issued assignments at the first of the week and reviewed the efforts on Friday, which was laden with peril. He read the works aloud, with appropriate comment. His sarcasm blistered the paintwork, and his very occasional praise sent you soaring over the weekend.

The man's solidity made him a clearing house for newspapers as far north as Baltimore. Even in the midst of the depression, Coffin's boys and girls went to work straight out of school. Editors held most vacancies for O. J.'s cubs, largely because they didn't have to teach the cubs very much about covering and writing a story. (Copyright, 1956, by U.F. Syndicate, Inc.)

A THOUGHT FOR THE SABBATH

Stories Of Famous Hymns

From Every Stormy Wind That Blows

From every stormy wind that blows,
From every swelling tide of woes,
There is a calm, a sure retreat,
'Tis found beneath the mercy seat.

There is a place where Jesus sheds
The oil of gladness on our heads;
A place than all besides more sweet,
It is the blood-bought mercy seat.

There is a scene where spirits blend,
Where friend holds fellowship with friend;
Tho' sundered far, by faith they meet,
Around one common mercy seat.

Ah! whither could we flee for aid,
When tempted, desolate, dismayed?
Or how the hosts of hell defeat,
Had suffering saints no mercy seat?

There, there on eagle wings we soar,
And sin and sense molest no more;
And heaven comes down our souls to greet,
While glory crowns the mercy seat.

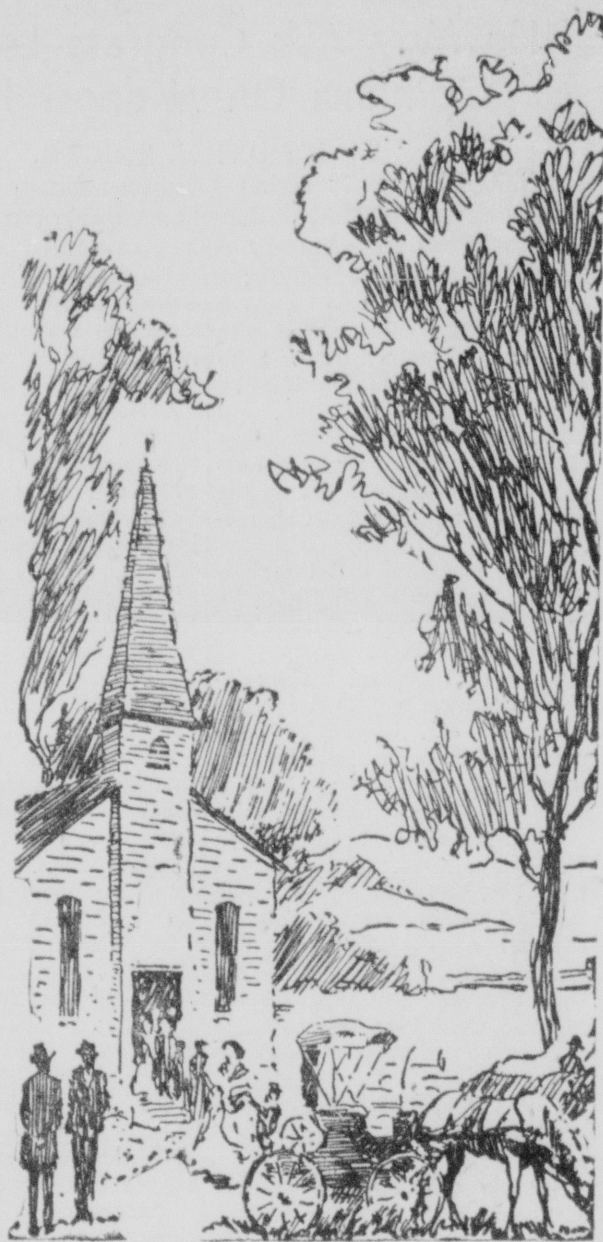

O may my hand forget her skill,
My tongue be silent, cold and still,
This bounding heart forget to beat,
If I forget the mercy seat.

By HORACE B. POWELL

A little band of Christian missionary-martyrs sang this fine old hymn, and found strength and peace in its message one day in 1857 just before they were put to death by a Hindu chieftain in Cawnpore, India. Christians in tribulation in every generation since then have drawn comfort from its reassuring promises.

It was written about a century ago by the Rev. Hugh Stowell, a Manxman preacher who served a brilliant ministry in England and became widely known for his sermons and writings. Born in 1799 on the Isle of Man, he was ordained in 1823 after studying at Oxford University. In 1835 he was appointed canon of Chester cathedral.

The hymn cited above, one of 47 written by the preacher-poet, was given its music by Thomas Hastings, distinguished American composer and musician. Mr. Hastings wrote a number of Christendom's most precious hymn-tunes, including the music for Augustus Toplady's immortal "Rock of Ages".

Power Of A Child

One squirrel, two dogs and one little girl can bring about any number of things, but whatever happens you can count on one thing. It will be squirrely.

Out of the three ingredients which brought riot to our house the other day, only one belongs properly to us. The dogs are ours. The squirrel lives next door, in a hollow tree in our neighbor's back yard. The little girl also lives next door.

Her name is Christina. Depending upon the amount of formality involved, she is called Christina, Christy or Tina. She is not yet of an age or kindergarten and has a vocabulary so large that it has far outrun her pronunciation. This is probably why she calls our dachshunds Gypsy and Geep. Under the circumstances these are close approaches to their real names of Gypsy and Jeep.

With her brothers and sister in school, Tina has developed a deep affection for Gypsy—excuse me, for Gypsy and Jeep. They return it. It has been some years since the dogs had any small children around to be plastered by. They appear to enjoy, the experience.

The dachshunds also enjoy chasing the squirrel out of our yard. This they do two or three times a day, regularly, whooping and hollering while they give chase to the fence. Once safe beyond the barrier, the squirrel chitters angrily at them, vowing vengeance.

Tina is as fond of the squirrel, in a long-distance sort of way, as she is of the dogs. The feud distresses her. She lectures the dachshunds daily on the need to live at peace with their fellow quadrupeds, only she does not say quadrupeds. She says "quirels." She speaks with downright firmness.

The dogs listen attentively, but next time they hear the squirrel in their yard, they sound the charge just the same.

This was the impasse at which things had arrived when Tina came visiting the other day. She had paid her respects to Gypsy and Jeep, brought Mrs. F. up to date on recent juvenile news in the neighborhood and was contentedly examining our daughter's doll collection. She had transported a couple of dolls to the kitchen and was seated on the floor, reading their costumes, when the squirrel sounded off outside.

Jeep and Gypsy were in the front of the house, but they heard it. You could tell that because they gave tongue even before they reached the kitchen. They rounded the corner out of the dining room at full speed, scattering throw rugs at the turn. They had one more turn to make before they reached the back door.

Tina was located right there. Like Ben Hur at the chariot reins, Tina hauled back. The dogs kept going. Tina went along, her heels almost smoking. "Gypsy," she shouted. "Geep!" The dogs hit the back door, but their momentum was checked. They couldn't burst it open.

Outside the squirrel scolded, daring his enemies to come out. Inside, Tina sat down, not altogether intending to, with a dog's tail in each fist. Gypsy barked. Jeep whined.

Tina turned a beaming face to Mrs. F. "Dey min'd me," she reported. And, indeed, they had minded—out of necessity. Tina's is a technique I shall have to try some day. (Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate)

City Firemen

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Following is a copy of a letter I have addressed to Lincoln's mayor and the City Council:

"As a citizen of this community, I am writing this letter for the purpose of bringing to your attention certain facts which you must certainly consider in the passage of the proposal before you, calling for the use of city firemen in police duties.

"It is common knowledge and I ask you to take cognizance of the fact that the sole purpose for the existence of a city government, a city mayor or council, is for the preservation of the health, safety and welfare of the community. I ask you further to take notice of the fact that the existence of our city government is based entirely upon the police powers of the state of Nebraska.

"If, in the studied opinion of our City Council and city fathers, there is a need for additional police personnel for the preservation and protection of the health, safety and welfare of this community, the expense of additional persons trained in the field of law-enforcement should be borne by this city in preference to some of the expenses now being paid by the city which do not appear to have any direct effect upon the safety of this community.

"The decision now in your hands is of the essence of your existence, and the calls upon this community for the expenditure of its funds for the very reason that this city government exists — the health, safety and welfare of this community.

"The exercise of a false economy in the preservation of life and limb is prejudicial to the vital interests of this community."

Fire Hazards

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The experience of the fire at Ord High School and the fire at the court house in Tecumseh should alert all responsible public officials to the necessity of eliminating any such hazards in these public structures. What with the Suez mess, foreign grants-in-aid, money for the Hungarian exodus, et cetera, the average taxpayer already is committed for the future.

The Holidays 'Are Merry For Lincoln's Young Set

The big item on the Thursday night calendar for the high school crowd was the Christmas Ball—a traditional affair for which a bevy of young and attractive high school girls are hostesses each year.

In addition to the Ball there always is the pre-Ball festivities when all of the pretty bouffant frocks, the corsages, the boutonnières—to say nothing of the dates—are duly admired.

Our photographer arrived at the party just as it was in full swing and caught a close up of a group watching Miss Mary Shugrue and Tom Yax go through their paces—

One of the pre-Christmas Ball parties on Thursday evening was the affair for which Miss Sarah Stenten, Miss Ginger Schilling and Miss Diana Hale were hostesses when they entertained at a "coke" party at the home of Miss Stenten. Following the party the group went on to the Lincoln Country Club and the traditional Christmas Ball.

Giving the buffet table a last minute scrutiny before the guests arrive are the three young hostesses who are:

Another of the young set's activities on Thursday evening preceding the Christmas Ball was the party for which Miss Jeanie Morrison and Miss Patty Miller were hostesses at the home of Miss Morrison. Cakes, fruit punch, Christmas cookies plus trays of other snacks kept the 40 guests busy until time to go to the big dance of the season—at least as far as the teenage crowd was concerned.

THE STAR IN SUBURBIA

It was just a Little Red Book filled with a galaxy of names, and a title bearing the name SUBURBIA above each column of the designated suburb areas that directed us through our "get-acquainted" visits with former Lincolinites and with new residents in and about the town. There is no exception in Park Manor as to the many friends we have made and to their good times that we have revealed by making these daily visits. This morning, for instance, we learned of holiday guests, vacationers and a birthday celebrant who will be entertained on Sunday.

A Park Manor family leaving for a 10-day visit in Bloomington, Ill., was that of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Richardson and their children Connie and Lorna, who spent the holidays with Mrs. Richardson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hall and with Mr. Richardson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richardson.

And off to Louisville, Ky., were Mr. and Mrs. James Mann, and their daughter and sons, Judy, Billy, Bobby and Larry who enjoyed Christmas with Mrs. Mann's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Fox, and with Mr. Mann's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Mann.

Then we heard that Mr. and Mrs. John Terry of Denver, Colo., arrived Thursday morning to spend a week with their son and daughter-in-law, Capt. and Mrs. Everett Terry and their three children Kathy, Kenneth and Tommy.

Although we're still in the midst of the holiday season, we must take time to mention a birthday celebrant who is 11-year-old Patty Peterson. Mrs. Ralph Peterson and her older daughter, Diane, will be hostesses to Patty and eight of her fifth grade school friends on Sunday afternoon.

Extending a neighborhood courtesy were Capt. and Mrs. Louis A. Roseling and Lou Ann who were Christmas dinner host and hostesses to Capt. and Mrs. Everett Terry and their family.

PATRICIAN HEIGHTS

Patrician Heights' residents spending the holidays in Campbell were Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Dankers and their children who were the guests of Mr. Dankers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Dankers.

Capt. and Mrs. Robert D. Hoffman, residents in Patrician Heights, were among the party hosts and hostesses who entertained ninety Air Force Base officers and their wives Friday evening at the Lt. Col. Walter Starck home. Hosts and hostesses besides the Hoffmans and the Starcks were Maj. and Mrs. Marvin Popp and Maj. and Mrs. Peter Evola.

Spending Christmas in Omaha were Capt. and Mrs. Robert D. Hoffman, Susan and Nancy, who visited Mrs. Hoffman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bain.

KESSLER HEIGHTS

A welcome to guests is a regular occurrence in Kessler Heights, as it is in every Suburbia area. And entertaining this week are Mr. and Mrs. Price May, who have as their visitors, Mrs. May's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Knight and their sons, Michael and Rickie. The Knights are also visiting Mr. Knight's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Knight.

Leaving the neighborhood for a holiday vacation were Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Blackburn and their daughter, Charlene, who enjoyed a week's visit with Mr. Blackburn's mother, Mrs. Ellen Blackburn, and with his grandmother, Mrs. O. S. Reeves in Pueblo, Colo.

To Be Morning Bride

MISS VELDA THOMAS, whose marriage to Clifton Wayne Koch will take place Saturday morning, Dec. 29, at St. Mary's Cathedral.

For the wedding of Miss Velda Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Thomas, and Clifton Wayne Koch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Koch of Sumnerfield, Kan., which will be an event of Saturday morning, Dec. 29, arrangements of crimson poinsettias and evergreens will decorate the chancel of St. Mary's Cathedral. The 10 o'clock ceremony will be solemnized by the Rev. John Flynn, and Miss Catherine Gillespie, organist, will play the wedding music. As the 150 guests assemble, Miss Gillespie also will accompany Mrs. Richard Duxbury, the vocal soloist.

Miss Jenny Thomas will attend her sister as maid of honor and will be frocked in holly red velvet. Beneath the basqued bodice, the skirt flares widely into waltz length, and her costume will be completed by a head bandeau of white velvet. Wearing identical ensembles will be the bridesmaids, Miss Norma Thomas also a sister of the bride, and Miss Joyce Knowles, and the junior bridesmaids, Miss Mary Carolyn Inglis and Miss Janet Moran. The attendants will carry velveteen muffs trimmed with sprays of holly.

Serving Mr. Koch as best man will be Leo Glynn, and the ushers will be Joyce Winquist and James D. Cameron, all of Sumnerfield, Kan., and Lawrence Thomas, brother of the bride. Jimmy Moran will be ringbearer.

The bride has chosen for her wedding a gown of Dupioni silk in the antique white shade. Re-embroidered Alencon lace, traced with iridescent sequins, forms the shoulder-wide, Sabrina neckline of the fitted bodice, and the sleeves are long and tapered. Beneath the elongated waist, the skirt is shirred into extreme fullness and extends into a train. Her silk illusion veil will be held by a coronet of jeweled lace, and she will carry a white prayer book ornamented with a single white orchid.

A reception will be held in the parlors of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Koch will leave for San Diego, Calif., where the bridegroom is stationed with the Navy and where the couple will reside. For traveling, the bride will wear a blue knitted frock with matching accessories.

Ceremony On Friday

MRS. KEITH LALLMAN

The chancel of the First Presbyterian Church at Fremont was lighted by white candles and decorated with arrangements of white chrysanthemums and woodwardia for the marriage of Miss Ann Jakeman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Jakeman of Fremont, and Keith Lallman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Lallman of Nickerson, on Friday afternoon, Dec. 28. The lines of the late afternoon service were read by Dr. R. V. Gilbert assisted by the Rev. E. J. Nickerson of Wahoo.

The maid of honor and bride's only attendant was Miss Janet Kauffman who appeared in a sheath frock of emerald green velvet. The torso bodice and slim skirt were accented by a flaring overskirt of matching green taffeta caught snugly at the waist by a cummerbund of the taffeta. She wore a tiara of velvet leaves and tiny red holly berries and carried a white muff trimmed with holly.

Perry Horacek of Omaha served Mr. Lallman as best man, and seating the guests were Clinton Jakeman, brother of the bride, and Ken Billings, both of Fremont; John Gibbons of Comstock; and Fred Armbrust, Omaha.

The bride's princess gown was fashioned of imported ivory silk brought from Europe by her father. Appliqued petals of velvet jeweled with tiny pearls, rhinestones and amber beading framed the rounded décolletage of the sculptured bodice, which was designed with long, tapered sleeves, and the applique motif was repeated at the hem of the very full skirt which ended in a chapel train. A scalloped queen's coronet of sequined velvet held her illusion veil.

After their wedding trip to Denver, the couple will reside at 800 So. 16th in Lincoln.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Lallman are students at the University of Nebraska where the bride, who formerly attended Colorado College, Colorado Springs, is a member of Gamma Phi Beta. Mr. Lallman is a member of Phi Kappa Psi.

THE DAYS are filled with a variety of activities that add plenty of zest to an already merry holiday season—and the New Year's Eve week-end still is to come—

The guests, who paid Lincoln a visit during Christmas week, have been incentives for numerous courtesies—And two such guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Junge who left on Friday to return to their home in Washington, D.C., after a brief holiday visit with Mr. Junge's mother, Mrs. O. J. Junge and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Junge.

Complimenting Mr. and Mrs.

Junge on the eve of their departure were Mr. and Mrs. J. Burks Harley who were a dinner host and hostess at the University Club. Dinner places were arranged for 22.

AND ON Friday evening was the 6 o'clock to 8 o'clock party for which Mr. and Mrs. A. Maxwell Klum of Palos Verdes Estates, Calif., who are spending the holidays as the guests of Mrs. Klum's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Lawrence, were host and hostess when they entertained at Hotel Cornhusker.

ON THE Saturday evening Calendar is the party for which Mr. and Mrs. John Saylor and Dr. and Mrs. Larry McKee will be hosts and hostesses at the home of Dr. and Mrs. McKee. Forty guests have been invited to the 6 o'clock to 8 o'clock canape affair.

ALSO planned for Saturday evening is the Safari Dancing Club's "Sno-Ball" at Cotner Terrace. In charge of the party arrangements is a committee for which Mr. and Mrs. Bob Gorham are serving as chairmen.

The guest list will include Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kierstad of San Diego, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Ron Douglas of Crete; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kohout of Friend; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Art Dunham of Fremont; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Neill, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Westervelt, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Wentz, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Kersey, and Dr. and Mrs. Tom Dworak.

LEAVING today to return to their home in Auburn, Ala., will be Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turner and their children Catherine, Ann, David and Nancy, who have been the Christmas week guests of Mrs. Turner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Grant. Mrs. Turner will be remembered as the former Marge Grant, Alpha Chi Omega at Nebraska.

Also a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grant is their son, Pvt. Robert Grant who came from Ft. Knox, Ky., for the holidays.

You can keep those Santa Claus whiskers on until next Monday night and go as Father Time.

Every Flea-bag, hamburger arsenal, lunch-wagon, convoy and pie-slit in the Automat has been reserved 60 days in advance. The new year diagnosis of relaxation is built-in aphasia.

This is a good week even if the whites of your eyes are on your tongue.

We play hard, we work hard and we relax as completely as a hippopotamus hammocking in a spider web. It manufactures no differentials if we start the new year wondering what became of the old one.

There's one thing that puzzles me about waiting the new year in. What becomes of all those revolving dance floors the next day?

We're winding up the holidays by wishing you all a Happy New Year.

Cornhusker Comeback Nets Big Seven Tourney Victory

NU Hits Tigers, 70-65

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star
KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Nebraska's Cornhuskers rebounded from a dismal showing against Michigan State to take a come-from-behind victory over Missouri in a Big Seven Tournament consolation thriller.

It was Jerry Bush's pet maneuver—the roll play—that sewed up the contest in the last two minutes after the Huskers blew a 11-point lead, dropped behind the Tigers and then fought back savagely.

With 1:43 left to play and sporting a 64-62 lead—thanks to Gary Reimers two free throws which broke a 62-62 tie—the Cornhuskers gained possession of the ball and called time out.

When the ball was put in play Don Smith—who sat out most of the game as Bush shuffled his lineup—tossed a perfect pass to Rex Ekwall, who had broken for the bucket, and the Husker captain sank a lay-in.

Missouri's Bill Ross cut the gap to two points again, but 23 seconds later the Huskers called another time out and this time Smith hit Reimers with a bulls-eye and Nebraska was home free with a 68-64 margin.

Free throws by Reimers—who fouled out with 9 seconds left—and Smith were anti-climax.

For a while it looked like the Huskers were going to pull a repeat of the second-half fiasco that killed them against Michigan State Thursday night.

Bush, trying to inject new life into his club, benched starters Smith and Jimmy Kubacki at the outset in favor of Lyle Nannen, Syracuse junior and Bill Wells, West Baden, Ohio senior.

The strategy paid off in the first half as the Cornhuskers—with Ron Parsons, Nannen, Ekwall, Wells and Larry White all chipping in—hit 51.9 per cent of their shots to take a 38-29 lead at the break.

Twice the Huskers moved in front by seven points, but with 4:30 left quick buckets by Lionel Smith—who led all scoring with 23 points—and Paul Stehr, plus free throws by Sonny Siebert and Rod Egelhoff cut the margin to 28-26.

But two jumpers by White, Chapell soph, and fielders by Ekwall and Nannen gave Nebraska its widest spread at halftime.

Ekwall—who played one of his best games—and Parsons pepped the Nebraskans to a 50-39 lead at the 11 minute mark and the Huskers looked like world-beaters.

Then two baskets by Siebert and three by Smith pulled the Tigers within one point, 49-50, with some nine minutes left. Free throws by Chuck Duren put Missouri in front 51-50 at 8:28 and the Cornhuskers rattled momentarily, giving the Tigers an opportunity to build up a live-point lead with 5:45 remaining.

But Nebraska was not in the give-up mood. Kubacki sank two free shots, Ekwall hit a jumper and Smith—who came into the game with six minutes left—hit a set shot to put NU in front again 61-60 with 4:55 left.

Reimers missed a free throw after Mike Kirksey regained the lead for the Tigers, 62-61, with a pair of gratis tosses. But Gary came through with three a minute later to put Nebraska in front to stay, setting up the roll play situations.

It was a rugged game, with three Tigers and Reimers fouling out.

The Husker zone defense—sparked by the aggressive play of Nannen and White—proved much tougher than it did against Michigan State.

Parsons led the Husker attack with 18 points, while Ekwall tossed in 16 and Nannen added nine.

Nebraska, who now moves into the consolation finals against Iowa State—74-64 winner over Kansas State in the afternoon curtain raiser—Saturday afternoon at 4 p.m., wound up with a tremendous 47.9 shooting percentage against the Tigers.

Missouri hit 29.9 overall after a poor 19.0 first-half showing.

Bush was called for a technical foul by official Keith Thomas with 7:54 left in the second half and Smith made good on the shot to give the Tigers a 52-52 tie.

But the Husker coach and team denied that Bush had said anything to Thomas.

"I never opened my mouth to him," Bush said. "It was a loud mouthed fan who was sitting behind us. He was yelling things all afternoon. I gave the officials a lot of dirty looks, but I've never gotten a technical for that."

Fireballing Feller Retires

By CHARLES R. HORNICK
CLEVELAND (AP)—Bob Feller, 38, who came out of Iowa 20 years ago as a kid with a bashful grin and blinding fastball to become one of baseball's greatest pitchers, hung up No. 19 Friday.

The former right-hand speedball artist announced at a news conference he was retiring as an active player to devote more time to his insurance business here and other interests.

"I could have gone with a couple of other ball clubs, but anything I might have done with them would have taken the edge off the success I have had with the Cleveland club the last 20 years," Feller said.

In addition to his insurance business, Feller said he would become associated with a nationally known firm which would take 30 days a year of his time in the interest of youth baseball. He said he was not at liberty to name the firm.

Feller will have to abandon his role as a player representative in the American League, but will continue to serve as president of the recently organized Major League Players Assn. and will remain as a member of the major league pension committee.

Feller also told general manager Hank Greenberg he was declining an offer of a front office job with the Indians.

"What if I did pitch another year, so what?" he said. "I would have to come to the decision I am making now, some time."

Greenberg said No. 19, which Feller wore for the last 18 years, would be retired, an honor no other Cleveland player has ever given.

Feller began as the flailing high school boy who chunked rocks behind the barn at Van Meter, Iowa, and learned from his father to throw a baseball so fast batters couldn't see it.

He became the strikeout king with 18 in one game to his credit, tied the modern major league record of three no-hitters, and won 20 or more games in six seasons. He missed three seasons at the peak of his career, while on duty with the Navy.

In the postwar years his income from the Indians alone—not to mention commercial endorsements—went around $80,000, and he depended on speed. But in recent years, slowing up, he learned to throw curves and sliders. Last season, used very rarely he was 0-4.

His 18 strikeouts in a nine-inning game against the Detroit Tigers at Cleveland Stadium, Oct. 2, 1938 is a major league record. Two of those strikeouts were charged to Greenberg. Detroit won the game, 4-1, mainly because Feller was wild.

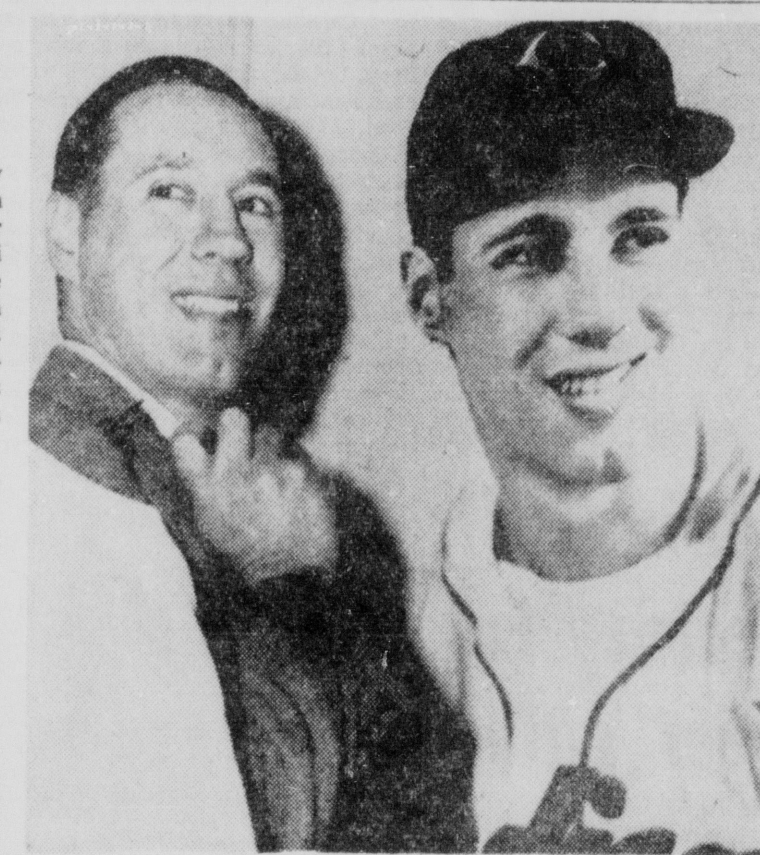

Feller always wanted to win a World Series game. But in two starts against the Boston Braves in 1948, he was charged with two losses. In one of those games they knocked him out of the box. In the other Feller had a two-hitter but the Braves won, 1-0. Phil Masi scored from second on a single by Tommy Holmes in the eighth after the famous pick-off play that didn't work. Feller threw to manager shortstop Lou Boudreau at second but umpire Bill Stewart called Masi safe.

His three no-hitters tied the record of the late Cy Young and a hurler from the 1880's, Larry Corcoran. Feller also had a dozen one-hitters.

He played in the All-Star game in 1939 through 1941, and again in 1946 and 1950. He won in 1946, which he called his greatest year.

Feller always counted his second no-hitter as the biggest thrill of his career. It was against New York, in Yankee Stadium, April 30, 1946, shortly after a lot of talk that he was "washed up." The score was 1-0.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Colorado's Buffaloes set a free throw record of 42 points in defeating the guest Michigan State Spartans 90-87 Friday night to join the Kansas Jayhawks in tonight's finals of the Big Seven basketball tournament.

A capacity crowd of about 10,200 was treated to one of the better games of the tournament, which followed Kansas' 74-56 victory over Oklahoma in the first semi-final.

Colorado, scoring its eighth victory of the season against one loss, made 42 of 49 free throw attempts. The previous free throw record of 37 was set by Missouri in the 1954 tournament.

The Buffaloes stayed in the game the first half on free throws. They hit their first 22 chances and dunked 26 of 27 before the half.

Dave Mowbray set the Colorado pace with nine fielders and 10 free throws for 28 points. Teammate Don Walker helped with 20.

Fabulous Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain scored 36 points and man-handled both backboards Friday night in leading the Kansas Jayhawks into the finals of the Big Seven basketball tournament with a 74-56 victory over the Oklahoma Sooners.

The 7-foot Chamberlain, a sophomore from Philadelphia who was stopped with only 12 points in Kansas' first round 58-57 triumph over Iowa State, tallied 19 points in the first half alone. He was taken from the game with 2:21 remaining, only three points shy of the tournament individual scoring record of 38 made by Sherman Norton of Oklahoma in 1951.

Oklahoma hung on gamely, but with Chamberlain hogging the ball under, around and even on top of both goal, the Sooners were never able to gain so much as a tie.

Chamberlain had 22 rebounds and made at least a half dozen blocks under the Oklahoma goal. The lean and swift Stilt made 11 of his 26 field goal attempts and 14 of 22 at the free throw line.

Iowa State's Cyclones, paced by its great little Gary Thompson who scored 20 points, outthumbed Kansas State for a 74-64 victory Friday in the other consolation game.

Except for a brief 17-18 deficit midway of the first half, Iowa State led all the way. The Cyclones once led by as much as 23 points in the second half, and were ahead 30-26 at halftime.

Kansas State center, Bob Booser, salvaged one honor for the Wildcats. He was high point man with 29.

Wilt Needs No Stilts For Rebound

Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, Kansas' 7-foot sophomore, goes high in the air in his awkward looking fashion but his height helps him get a rebound ahead of Oklahoma's Joe King (32) in a Big Seven Conference tournament game Friday night. Wilt tallied 36 points in leading the Jayhawks to a 74-56 victory which enabled Kansas to advance to the championship finals of the tourney. (AP Wirephoto).

EAGER BABY VASQUEZ IS RING WINNER WITH TKO OVER ROSI

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Baby Vasquez, the eager lightweight champion from Mexico, stopped Italian Paolo Rosi on a seventh round technical knockout Friday night in a toe-to-toe slugfest at Miami's Biscayne Arena.

With blood streaming from both of Rosi's eyes, Referee Mike Kaplan stopped the bout with 1:55 gone in the round. Vasquez, an 8-5 underdog, was bleeding freely himself from the left ear, which had been gashed by Rosi in a seventh-round exchange.

Neither fighter is ranked among the lightweight division's top ten but Rosi, who had won three straight this year, was expected to win Friday night and make a strong bid for a place in the ratings.

Although Giammalva was whipped by Rosewall in the singles Friday 4-6, 6-1, 8-6, 7-5 and shared defeat with veteran Vic Seixas in the doubles Thursday, Sam remained America's new hope to challenge the powerful Aussies in 1957. Hoad finished off Seixas, 3-3, in straight sets, 6-2, 7-5, 6-3.

Both American coach Bill Talbert and Australia's Harry Hopman were true with the superlatives in describing Giammalva's courageous play against Rosewall.

"He showed he could hold up under pressure and can develop into a big player," said Talbert. "It only takes one big guy to lead a cup victory."

Hopman said Sammy has "a bright future ahead of him indeed," and praised him for "having the courage to go for his shots even against a good man like Rosewall."

Beyond Giammalva's playing, the United States had little to cheer about. It was perhaps the worst beating handed a cup team since 1946 when Australia won only two sets against America.

The United States, making a bid to regain the cup lost last year to the Aussies, won three sets in three days of competition.

While praising Giammalva, Talbert called for a new look at American amateur tennis which he says may be at the lowest ebb

Tar Heels To Meet Deacons

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Second-ranked North Carolina won its 10th consecutive game Friday night by devastating Duke 87-71, and Wake Forest came from behind Friday to whip North Carolina State 73-66 and move into the championship finals of the Dixie basketball classic.

In the consolation semi-finals, Utah piled up a 19-point first half lead and went on to upset West Virginia 83-66 Friday night, and DePaul edged Iowa 73-72 in an overtime battle Friday afternoon.

Lennie Rosenbluth, North Carolina's All-America candidate, banged in 32 points as the Tar Heels continued unbeaten.

Rosenbluth, forward Pete Brennan and guard Tommy Kearns starred as North Carolina unranked a first half show of power that overwhelmed the Blue Devils ninth-ranked in this week's Associated Press poll. Brennan got 20 points and Kearns 19.

At the half the Tar Heels were riding on a 43-32 edge. Duke cut the margin to nine points midway in the second half, but the Tar Heels had too much height and shooting ability in the closing minutes for their arch rivals. Jim Newcome led Duke's attack with 19 points.

Controlling the backboards, Utah nearly blew the Mountaineers off the court during the first half with a masterful display of shooting skill and ball handling. With forward Milton Kane sparking the attack, the Utes took the lead at the start and were never overtaken. Kane poured in 22 points.

West Virginia's high scoring star, Rod Hundley, was held to six points during the first half and wound up with 16 points to top his team.

Wake Forest was six points down in the first half, and trailed by 33-31 at halftime. The home-town Wolfpack extended its lead to six points early in the second half before the scrappy Deacons began to move.

Wake Forest went ahead after 3½ minutes of the second half, 41-40, on two free throws by forward Jack Williams. With 9:03 remaining, the Deacons led 52-48.

N. C. State came back on the brilliant shooting of guard John Maglio to gain a 55-54 margin with 5:54 remaining. Wake Forest took the lead 56-55 on a goal by forward Wendell Carr and stayed out front the rest of the way.

Carr, with 21 points, sparked the Deacons. Maglio with 22 led State.

Notre Dame, Manhattan In ECAC Finals

NEW YORK (AP)—Notre Dame joined Manhattan in the final round of the ECAC Holiday Festival basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden, coming through with a powerful second half to overwhelm Brigham Young 91-66 after the Jaspers had tripped up Ohio State 82-67 before 9,642 Friday night.

Three consolation games preceded the semi-final twin bill, enough to satisfy the fans who were totally unaware of a fake bomb discovered in the Garden lavatory in between halves of the Manhattan-Ohio State game. John Smyth, Notre Dame center and captain, paced the winners with 23 points but it was Johnny McCarthy, a reserve, who sparked the Irish to victory—just as he did against New York University Wednesday night.

Brigham Young was ahead 50-49 with eight minutes gone when McCarthy hit with a hump shot to put Notre Dame in front 51-50. Field goals by Ed Gleason, Bob Devine and Smyth followed in rapid succession to give the Irish a 56-50 lead.

When the Cougars threatened to catch up on baskets by Johnny Benson, who tallied 31 points, and Roy Thacker, McCarthy came through with two more baskets and Notre Dame was off and running again.

Coach Johnny Jordan used six players and all of them scored in double figures with Devine and Tom Hawkins getting 14 each, Gleason 13 and Joe Morelli 11.

70,000 Expected To Watch Pro Playoff

Record Pay For Giants And Bears

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—As much as its blase attitude would permit, the big town was going slightly mad over its own "bowl" games Sunday—the National Football League championship playoff clash between old and hard-hitting rivals, the Bears from Chicago and the New York Giants.

The Bears, Western Conference champions, flew into town late Friday afternoon delighted to discover that close to 70,000 fans will pay in the neighborhood of $350,000 to watch them bump heads with Subway Tech, otherwise known as the Giants, champs of the Eastern half of the league.

Radio and television, 1:05 p.m., NBC, broadcasts will sweeten the pot by another $200,000. New York and an area 75 miles around the city will be blacked out of the telecast.

A record payoff for both the winners and losers seems a cinch. The high mark was established last year when each of the victorious Cleveland Browns collected $3,500 and each of the losing Los Angeles Rams received $2,316.

Good seats were as tough to find as a pair on the aisle for "My Fair Lady" on Broadway. Speculators were naming their own terms on anything between the 20-yard lines. Only seats left in the racks were for lower stand boxes and a few for seats with obstructed views in the upper stands. Some 12,000 bleacher seats at $3 will go on sale 11 a.m. Sunday along with standing room admissions — if there is a demand for them — at $4 each.

Despite the furore over the Giants' success in making the playoffs for the first time since 1946, the Bears held firm as the three point favorites. This also is the first playoff for the Bears since 1946. The Chicagoans whipped the Giants that year, 24-14.

In their only previous collision during the regular season, the Bears surged from behind Nov. 25 on a pair of acrobatic catches by end Harold Hill to register a 17-17 tie.

While the Bears were traveling to New York, the Giants went through their last heavy workout. They drilled on offense and defense for an hour and a half this morning and then spent the afternoon watching movies of the bitterly fought Bears-Detroit Lions game of Dec. 16. The Bears won that bone-dead affair 38-21 in Chicago to clinch the western title.

The Giants will limber up lightly today at 10 a.m. and then turn over the field to the Bears who will wind up their practice with an easy session starting at noon.

St. Francis, Texas Southern To Vie In NAIA Tip-Off

OMAHA (AP)—St. Francis of Brooklyn and Texas Southern Friday night advanced to the championship game of the NAIA Tip-Off basketball tournament.

St. Francis gained a finals spot by beating Gustavus Adolphus, 89-81, and Southern smashed Hamline, 94-68, setting a tourney scoring record.

The championship game will be played at 9:30 p.m. (CST) tonight with Gustavus Adolphus meeting Hamline at 8 p.m. (CST) for third place.

Southern raced to a 9-0 lead in the first two minutes and led 51-36 at the half as the Negro team turned the game into a rout. Southern hit 55.2 per cent of its floor shots in the first half.

The Texas club was led by Bob Bobbitt with 24 points and Hamline by Dave Schneider with 17.

St. Francis staged a second half rally that wiped out a six point Gustavus Adolphus lead to reach the finals.

Gator Bowl, All-Star Games Today

The Associated Press

A "natural" rematch between once-beaten Georgia Tech and two-time beaten Pittsburgh in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville and the two all-star games—East vs. West at San Francisco and Blue vs. Gray at Montgomery, Ala.—Saturday opens up the big week of holiday football.

The pros move into the frenzied picture with the National Football League championship clash at New York's Yankee Stadium Sunday when the New York Giants tackle the Chicago Bears.

Then comes the mass windup on New Year's Day headed by the "big four"—Iowa (8-1) vs. Oregon

State (7-2-1) in the Rose Bowl, Pasadena, Calif.; Tennessee (10-0) vs. Baylor (8-2) in the Sugar Bowl, New Orleans; Syracuse (7-1) vs. Texas Christian (7-3) in the Cotton Bowl, Dallas; and Colorado (7-2-1) vs. Clemson (7-1-2) in the Orange Bowl, Miami.

Georgia Tech, with seven straight bowl victories under Coach Bobby Dodd, was 7½ point favorite to beat the Panthers of Pittsburgh for the second successive year. A year ago in the Sugar Bowl, Tech edged Pitt 7-0.

The game was a sellout of 37,000 fans. Like the other key games on the week's schedule it was listed for national radio and television treatment, CBS at 12:45 p.m., CST. The East, featuring Notre Dame quarterback Paul Hornung operating behind a hefty, experienced line, was a six-point choice over the Western forces headed by Stanford passer John Brodie and Southern California speedster Jon Arnett.

The West entered the 32nd annual contest in Kezar Stadium with a 14-13 margin. Four games were tied.

The Shrine game, will be broadcast and telecast by NBC at 3:45 p.m., CST, as the second half of a TV-radio doubleheader. The Blue-Gray contest will be aired by NBC at 12:45 p.m., CST.

Coached by Jim Tatum of North Carolina, the Rebels were rated six-point favorites over the North-erners coached by Don Faurot, who recently wound up his career at Missouri.

The Western champion Chicago Bears held firm as the three-point choice to bowl over the Eastern champion Giants before close to 70,000 spectators. NBC will broadcast and telecast the title tilt starting at 1:05 p.m., CST. New York and an area 75 miles around the city will be blacked out of the telecast.

The favorites for the New Year's Day special were Iowa by the Rose over Oregon State in the Rose
